

Helping you learn how to apply the P3M3® model to raise your organisation's capability

Our Portfolio, Programme and Project Management Maturity Model (P3M3) training workshop helps you to understand and apply the model to improve your organisation's capability, learning from one of the authors of the model itself.

Meeting your needs

The purpose of this training is to give those who will be commissioning or managing capability improvement services, or using a maturity model, such as P3M3 an understanding how to apply the model to improve organisational capability.

The training workshop is designed around best practice methodologies and tools to equip you with the knowledge and skills to optimise your organisation's performance and is brought to life with real life experience and current examples.

Questions answered

The workshop addresses problems that you may have noticed in your organisation, including:

- You have invested heavily in training but your organisation's performance has not improved
- New tools are not delivering the benefits that you expected when you purchased them
- Your project management office is seen as increasingly bureaucratic and appears to be slowing you down

Who should attend?

The workshop is suitable for:

- Anyone wanting to know more about maturity models and how to use them
- Organisations considering undertaking maturity assessments of capability
- Anyone taking the first steps towards becoming a licensed P3M3 assessor

Learning outcomes

By the end of the workshop, you will:

- Have understood the background and purpose of maturity modelling
- Know the benefits of using a maturity model to improve organisational capability
- Be able to explain the five levels of maturity described by P3M3 and many other maturity models
- Be able to describe how the P3M3 model is constructed in terms of levels, perspectives and threads
- Be able to describe and apply a simple improvement process using P3M3
- Be able to scope a P3M3 assessment and create an improvement roadmap for the organisation

Course structure

The workshop is structured as follows:

- An introduction to maturity modeling including their history and the benefits that can be achieved
- Understanding the P3M3 model itself including its structure and what's new in the current version
- The difference between the self-assessment and the full assessment including relative benefits
- Applying a simple framework for improvement including assessment planning and improvement planning
- A case study describing how to apply the model in a complex environment
